Setting Up the Learning Environment

- Blocks and Construction: Include unit blocks, people figures, and vehicles. Add clipboards and paper for drawing building plans.
- Dramatic Play: Rotate props—kitchen sets, dress-up clothes, or a pretend grocery store—to reflect different themes.
- Art Area: Offer a variety of tools (brushes, scissors, sponges) and materials (paint, clay, recycled items) to encourage creativity.
- Library/Cozy Corner: Display books that relate to current studies and include soft seating for quiet reading.

Daily Schedule and Routines

1. Arrival and Choice Time: Children enter and select activities in interest areas.
2. Morning Meeting: A group gathering to greet one another, discuss the day, and introduce a concept.
3. Small-Group Instruction: Teacher works with a small group on a specific skill using an Intentional Teaching Card.

4. Outdoor or Large Motor Time: Active play to develop physical skills.
5. Snack and Story Time: Promote healthy eating habits and language development.
6. Project Work: Extended time for children to investigate a topic (e.g., building a ramp or creating a class book).
7. Closing Circle: Reflect on the day's learning and share discoveries.

Practical Tips for Teachers

- Start with Observation: Spend the first few weeks getting to know your children. What are their interests? What skills do they already have? Use this information to plan your first study (e.g., "Trees" or "Balls").
- Use Intentional Teaching Cards Daily: Each card includes a clear objective, materials list, and step-by-step instructions. Select one or two cards per day for small-group or whole-group time.
- Involve Families: Send home weekly newsletters explaining what children are learning. Ask families to share stories, artifacts, or expertise related to the current study.
- Document Everything: Create portfolios for each child using photos, work samples, and anecdotal notes. This not only supports assessment but also makes learning visible to parents.
- Embrace the "Mighty Minutes": These short activities (e.g., a fingerplay or a counting chant) fill transition times with learning. They are a gold mine for reinforcing skills throughout the day.
