- Fun for the Secret Seven (1963) - The final book, involving a mystery at a fairground.

The Adventure Series: A Global Quest

For readers who prefer a more exotic flavour, The Adventure Series is a must-read. This series, part of the larger List Ofs Written By Enid Blyton, follows four children—Philip, Dinah, Lucy-Ann, and Jack—along with their friend Bill Smugs (a secret agent). Their adventures take them to far-flung corners of the world, from the mountains of Austria to the islands of the South Seas. The series is noted for its strong sense of place and more complex plots involving smuggling, lost civilizations, and international espionage.

The Adventure Series includes:

- The Island of Adventure (1944) - The first meeting and an adventure on a mysterious island with an abandoned copper mine.
- The Castle of Adventure (1946) - A mystery involving a hidden castle and a plot against a top-secret aircraft base.
- The Valley of Adventure (1947) - An accidental flight in an aeroplane leads to a lost valley and a treasure of ancient manuscripts.
- The Sea of Adventure (1948) - A boat trip to a remote Scottish island turns into a mission to stop a gang of bird smugglers.
- The Mountain of Adventure (1949) - A holiday in Wales becomes a quest for a legendary lost city and a cure for a deadly disease.
- The Ship of Adventure (1950) - A Mediterranean cruise is disrupted by a mystery involving stolen treasures and a hidden island.
- The Circus of Adventure (1952) - A political thriller where the children must protect the Prince of Tauri-Hessia.
- The River of Adventure (1955) - The final adventure takes place in the Middle East, involving an archaeological dig and a secret river.

The Faraway Tree Series: A Portal to Enchantment

No List Ofs Written By Enid Blyton would be complete without her most magical offering. The Faraway Tree seriesis a pure fantasy, telling the story of three children—Joe, Beth, and Frannie—who discover a magical tree that reaches to the clouds. At the top of the tree is a ladder that leads to a succession of different lands, each with its own unique magic and whimsical characters, including Moon-Face, Silky the fairy, the Saucepan Man, and the grumpy Dame Washalot.

The books in this beloved series are:

- The Enchanted Wood (1939) - The children discover the Faraway Tree and make friends with its inhabitants.
- The Magic Faraway Tree (1943) - More adventures in the magical lands, including the Land of Dreams and the Land of Spells.
- The Folk of the Faraway Tree (1946) - The introduction of new characters and adventures in even more fantastical lands, such as the Land of Temper and the Land of Toys.
- Up the Faraway Tree (1951) - A final collection of stories featuring the magical tree and its denizens.

The School Stories: Malory Towers and St. Clare's

Enid Blyton was a master of the school story genre, and her two main series, Malory Towers and St. Clare's, are beloved for their depictions of friendship, rivalry, and adventure within the traditional British boarding school system. These series are a vital part of any List Ofs Written By Enid Blyton.

This series follows Darrell Rivers through her years at a girls' boarding school in Cornwall. The books focus on character development, with Darrell learning to control her temper and become a responsible prefect.

- First Term at Malory Towers (1946)
